Winner – General Corporate, Norway

Henning Nordtvedt is a partner in the firm's construction and offshore business area, and is a member of the practice groups for litigation, construction, fabrication contracts and public procurement.

Mr Nordtvedt has particular knowledge of dispute resolution, construction (including design commissions) and public procurement. He is often praised by clients for his technical skills and practical approach. He previously worked in litigation at the Office of the Attorney General and was responsible for implementing major state procurements. He is admitted to appear before the Supreme Court.

Over the last few years Mr Nordtvedt has primarily focused his practice on dispute resolution and litigation; follow-up and dispute resolution in connection with larger deliveries within the offshore sector; implementation of larger state procurements; and follow-up and dispute resolution in connection with road, bridge and building contracts and design commission contracts. He has also advised both public and private participants in public procurement.

Haavind is a leading player on the Norwegian market and a full-service law firm. The company numbers 150 employees in total. Haavind's history stretches back to the end of the 19th century. Since then, the firm has been through many extensive changes and implemented a number of processes for market and organizational development. The overall objective has been to develop the business in order to serve clients better, be even more client oriented and thus supply better solutions to its clients.
